

Hyperbaric Oxygen Treatment for Necrotizing Fasciitis – Left Heel

Initial Visit

Treatment 26

Treatment 49

Treatment 53

Treatment 70

Final Visit

The patient, a 48-year-old white female with diabetes, was presented to HyOx for hyperbaric and Anodyne treatment for necrotizing fasciitis of the left heel and failed grafts. The patient received She had debridement and started antibiotic treatment. She had a combination of MRSA, Enterococcus faecalis and Pseudomonas aeruginosa. The patient received 75 hyperbaric treatments, realistically starting over as of 1/10/05 and now status post 36 hyperbaric treatments. End Result: The patient's condition was improved – including diabetic neuropathy in her lower extremities.